Some of these would include woodcut, block print, lithograph, silkscreen, etchings, clay print, linocut, and mono print. These artists all had their own unique style with the focus of this exhibition on abstract imagery.

The artists represented in this exhibition are John K. Eder, Marion Nicoll, Maxwell Bates, Deli Socilotto, Ted Faiers, A. S. Kozub, Aurdy, Carol Breen, T. Sasaki, Toshi Yoshida, Lucien Compagnol, Vivian Lindoe, E. J. Ferguson, Kay Angliss, Kenneth Samuelson, and John Snow.

KAHS "We Create Change" featured on A Public Education

The next episode of "A Public Education" will feature a segment on Kate Andrews High School staff and students involved in the "We Create Change" program.

The episode will air Saturday, November 28th at 2:30 p.m. on CTV2.

The feature on KAHS includes interviews with Mr. Gibson and several students who have changed their focus from Me to We. The KAHS story can also be viewed online at <http://goo.gl/PswOC9>.

Palliser embraces “We Day”

COALDALE – If inspiration is infectious, Jess Shipton might best be quarantined.

Instead, the ever-chipper Kate Andrews High School (KAHS) student will be surrounded by thousands of like-minded youth and teachers at Tuesday’s We Day celebration in Calgary.

The event brings world-renowned speakers and performers together with students who have embraced the shift from “me to we” in an effort to turn their inspiration into sustained action.

Shipton was able to experience We Day for the first time last year and is pumped to be taking part again.

“I think one of my favourite things about We Day is to see other people get excited about the same things we get excited about,” says the Grade 11 student, who is also on the planning committee for Palliser’s Student Leadership conference Nov. 20.

Tickets for We Day can’t be purchased. They must be earned by each participating school by completing a local and global action relating to any social justice issue they choose. Kate Andrews earned more than 40 tickets and as a result will take some Grade 9 students to We Day for the first time.

Shipton was thrilled to learn that and spoke to the younger students about what to expect.

“My brother is one of those Grade 9s and for me to see all those Grade 9s get excited about all this stuff, I think that would be awesome,” she says. “I want to see that because they are the future generations coming up at this school and once we get their spark going, we got it. . . “

Shipton was elated when invited to get up on stage this year as part of a special segment called “What is your Spark?” There she’ll join Spencer West, a motivational speaker who summited Mount Kilimanjaro despite losing both legs as a child.

When it comes to what motivates her she drew inspiration from a recent trip to Haiti – the birthplace of a little boy her family is adopting – and the opportunity to see true poverty first-hand.

“Someday poverty will be something that we only study in history textbooks,” recited Shipton of the line she’ll share at We Day. “Which I totally believe, because that would be cool to see poverty completely gone someday.”

A number of other Palliser Regional Schools will also be sending students to the conference, which shifts the focus from the individual to the power of community.

Among those is Brant Christian School, which earned 10 tickets for helping build a home in Tijuana, Mexico, and Dorothy Dalglish School with 19 students attending. The Picture Butte elementary school raised money last year to empower women in Kenya. Carmangay Outreach will be taking 15 students. The program, which serves Low-

German speaking Mennonite students, will focus local efforts on the food bank and pediatric ward at the hospital. Arrowwood School is sending a contingent of 17.

Last year KAHS raised money to build a school in Nicaragua. This past summer Carmen Nadeau and fellow Grade 12 Keleeja Peters travelled to Central America to help build it. Nadeau says it was a real benefit to see first-hand the type of impact such a project can make.

“Not a lot of them had a lot, but they were so happy with what they had and were so thankful for everything,” she says, adding the experience has changed her outlook. “Like education. We’re lucky enough to have it but sometimes you don’t realize that. For them, not everyone gets to go to school.”

Hanna Janssens will be attending her first We Day and the Grade 10 Kate Andrews student is looking forward to a little inspiration from the many presenters.

“I just remember ever since I was little I’ve loved helping others so when I found out about We Schools, I just wanted to be involved, to help others,” she says.

We Schools is a program that challenges young people to identify the local and global issues that spark their passion and then empowers them with the tools to take action.

The We Schools program provides educators and students with resources to help them gain an understanding of the root causes of pressing issues like hunger, poverty and lack of education, and explore what they can do to help.

Kate Andrews’s teacher Mike Gibson says the We Schools message certainly ties in with curriculum, especially Grade 10 Social Studies, which asks students what kind of global citizen they want to be. “I hope more than just getting a spark from We Day, the kids realize social activism is a very, very important part of our world today,” he says. “There are a lot of people who are so less fortunate and I try to teach them, it doesn’t take very much to give back.”

This year Kate Andrews is looking to raise $5,000 towards Adopt a Village projects which fall under the categories of health, water, education, alternative income and livelihood, and agriculture and food security.

Thanks to Mr. Gibson, Mrs. Nieboer and Mrs. Alexander who travelled with the 39 students to WE DAY this year.

Coaldale “Wraps it up Red” in the 8th Annual COALDALE CARES Blood Drive

The community of Coaldale “Wraps it up Red” this holiday season by giving life. This annual campaign is co-sponsored by Kate Andrews High School and Intercontinental Truck Body, asking Coaldale residents to help hospital patients by rallying friends and family to book an appointment to donate blood.

The Holiday season can be a challenging time to recruit blood donors. People become busy with friends, family, or Christmas activities and donating blood is not always top of mind. But sadly, the need for blood never takes a holiday. Every day, hospital patients are depending on blood donors to help save their lives.

Canadian Blood Services needs over 580 more donors to book appointments at the Lethbridge clinic in December to keep up with hospital demand. We are located at #220, 200 4 Ave South in Lethbridge Centre.

Please call 1 888 2 DONATE (1 888 236 6283), visit www.blood.ca, or download the app: GiveBlood to book your appointment and WRAP IT UP RED!

Canadian Blood Services will be at Kate Andrews High School doing blood typing on Tuesday, December 8 from 11:00 am to 1:00 pm in front of the office. You must be 17 years old to participate without parental consent. If you are between 14-16 years old and want to participate, you can get a consent form from Ms. Schmidt. Your parent or guardian can sign which allows you to have your blood typed.

Interested in making holiday miracles? Getting your blood typed is a great start. If you are 17 years old consider joining the Lifebus on December 15th. For more information please contact Ms. Schmidt.

"WHAT'S YOUR TYPE?" PROGRAM CONSENT FORM - For participants under the age of 17

Canadian Blood Services is offering a "What's Your Type?" blood donor recruitment information event. This event introduces participants to the benefits of donating blood. Participation is purely voluntary. As part of the event, a small sample of blood is taken from a finger prick for testing blood type. There are no serious side effects. The purpose of this test is to introduce participants to blood donation. Canadian Blood Services keeps a record of the participant's contact information and blood type test result and if the participant agrees, will contact him/her to donate blood in the future. Canadian Blood Services keeps the information confidential and does not use it for any other purpose. Test results are not accepted by health care providers to identify blood type for medical treatment. The test results are not accepted for identification purposes such as paternity testing.

As the participant is younger than the required minimum age for blood donation (donors must be at least seventeen years of age), Canadian Blood Services requests your permission before he/she participates in the program. Please fill out this form and have the participant present it to staff at the "What's Your Type?" event.

Dear Kate Andrews Parents/Guardians,

Several years ago Palliser Regional School Division introduced a process for reviewing its schools and since 2005-06 a review team has visited all schools in Palliser in order to assist the school's staff and administration with school planning. School reviews take place every four to five years or when a new principal is in their second year of leadership. Kate Andrews is the next school scheduled for a review, on December 2, 2015.

Specifically, the purpose of a school review is to:

1. Gather data to celebrate the good things being done at the school,
2. Inform the school's staff, students and parents about areas of need which might be addressed in future plans,
3. Begin a collaborative effort between stakeholders so that the best plan possible evolves.

The assumptions underlying a school review are:

1. Regardless of how effective or good a school is, it can improve;
2. Staff members want to grow professionally;
3. Stakeholders support improvement and growth;
4. Staff should lead the school improvement process.

There are two important avenues for you to provide the review team with your feedback.

First, there will be an on-line survey sent to all of our parents as part of the school review process. Please take the time to complete the survey and submit it to Palliser. The information is very important to both our school and the school review process. In addition to parents, we will also be asking students and staff to complete their responses "on line" as well. Results of all survey questionnaires (parents, students and staff) will be shared when the school review report is completed. If you have difficulty completing the survey please contact the principal, Harry Fritschy, and he can support you with this.

Second, we will be holding a "Parent Focus Group" session at Kate Andrews on December 2 from 7:00 – 8:00 PM. Please plan to attend this session as you will be able to share your views and opinions with the Superintendent and other Palliser Senior Administration.

Thank you in advance for your anticipated help with this very important initiative.

Yours truly,

Harry Fritschy

Talking to Your Teen About Bullying

Teens can be under a lot of pressure as they deal with hormonal changes, heartbreaks, anxiety about school, relationships, etc. With so much going on in your teen's life, it is important to watch for signs that your teen may be struggling with bullying. If your teen seems unusually anxious, worried about going to school or withdrawn, take some time to check in and let them know you are there to support them. Bullying can take different forms:

- Verbal: name calling, gossiping and negative comments about a person's interests or background (e.g. culture, race, ethnicity, religion, gender or sexual orientation).
- Physical: hitting, tripping, pinching and unwanted sexual touching.
- Social: leaving someone out on purpose, telling others not to be friends and spreading rumors.
- Cyber: the use of email, text messages, social media and internet sites to socially exclude, embarrass and damage reputations and relationships.

What to do if you suspect your teen is being bullied?

- Start the conversation. Talk often and openly.
- Offer comfort and encourage your teen to talk about their feelings.
- Work with your teen's school to monitor, prevent and stop bullying behaviours.
- Make safety arrangements. Be sure your teen knows how to get help.
- Build confidence. Teach your teen to be assertive, not aggressive.
- Stand up for you teen. Get involved in bullying awareness and prevention programs.
- Be a role model.

Because they don't come with a manual Alberta Health Services has created Healthy Parents, Healthy Children just for you. From pregnancy up to 6 years of age, all the information you need is at your fingertips. For reliable information about how to help your family grow, learn and be healthy, visit:

Adult intervention is key to bullying prevention. Being informed about bullying is the first step in addressing bullying behaviour and promoting healthy relationships. Take action with teachers and other adults in your community to implement anti-bullying programs to help end negative implications caused by bullying. For more information and resources on bullying awareness and prevention, we encourage you to check out what www.teachingsexualhealth.ca has to offer!

Safe Food for Lunch

Food is an enjoyable part of everyday living. When we eat we want to have the proper nutrition, but we also want the food to taste and look good. One thing we never expect is to get sick from the food we eat. To keep any food safe we can follow four easy steps:

Chill – Keep food at 4°C or colder. Use an ice pack in your child's lunch bag or freeze a juice box. You will still have cold juice by lunch and the rest of the lunch will be safer to eat.

Cook – Colour no longer indicates doneness. To make sure the germs that cause foodborne illness are killed, check the temperature of the food with a thermometer. An internal temperature of 74°C should be reached at the end of cooking. Reheat foods to an internal temperature of 74°C as well.

Clean – Handwashing is one of the best ways to prevent many types of illness. The most important time to wash is after going to the bathroom. Use clean dishes to prepare food. Wash fruits and vegetables before eating.

Separate – Keep raw foods and cooked foods separate. Clean dishes between preparing different types of food or use separate dishes.

These four steps will help to keep any food safer to eat and prevent foodborne illness.
